Weather Situation

A cold front with an embedded low pressure system lies west of Kangaroo Island. The low is expected to move north and over the Eyre Peninsula today, weakening as it moves into NSW on Tuesday. A weak ridge of high pressure begins to move across SA later in the week.

Forecast for the rest of Monday 25 May

Showers across most districts, most likely across the agricultural area. Isolated thunderstorms about the central districts. Maximum temperatures below average. Southwest to southeasterly winds fresh at times about the coast.

Forecast for Tuesday 26 May

Showers across most districts, less likely across the far north. Isolated thunderstorms possible over the North East Pastoral District. Maximum temperatures below average. Southwest to southeasterly winds.

Forecast for Wednesday 27 May

Isolated showers in the morning, becoming less likely during the day. Maximum temperatures near to below average. Southwest to southeasterly winds.

Forecast for Thursday 28 May

Isolated showers about southern coasts and ranges. Maximum temperatures near to below average. West to southwesterly winds.

Cumulative rainfall totals to the end of Thursday: 1 to 5 mm about the pastoral districts. Elsewhere, 5 to 15 mm across the agricultural areas and west coast, increasing to 15 to 30 mm across western Eyre Peninsula, Kangaroo Island and eastern districts.

The next routine forecast will be issued at 4:00 pm CST Monday.
