Weather Situation

A high pressure system currently over the eastern border will drift into NSW as a weak trough skims the southeast on Tuesday, into Wednesday morning. A new high will move across waters to the south mid-week to be centred over Tasmania on Thursday, continuing to extend a ridge over SA on Friday.

Forecast for the rest of Monday 22 June

Isolated light showers about southeastern coasts. Light winds tending north to northwesterly near the coast.

Forecast for Tuesday 23 June

Isolated showers near southern coasts. Patchy of morning fog about the Agricultural Areas and frost about the Murray districts. Maximum temperatures below average. Light and variable winds

Forecast for Wednesday 24 June

Isolated showers about southern coastal districts and possibly developing over the Nullarbor Plain. Areas of morning fog and patchy frost about central and eastern districts. Maximum temperatures below average. East to southeasterly winds, tending northeasterly in the far west.

Forecast for Thursday 25 June

Isolated showers about parts of the southern coastal districts and over the Nullarbor Plain, possibly extending further through the West Coast. Areas of morning fog about the eastern districts. Maximum temperatures below average. East to southeasterly winds, tending northeasterly in the far west.

Forecast for Friday 26 June

Isolated light showers about the southern coasts, possibly also developing about the Flinders and southeastern Pastoral. Patchy morning fog about the Agricultural Areas. East to southeasterly winds, tending northeasterly in the far west.

Cumulative rainfall totals to the end of Friday: less than 2 mm for most districts, 2-5 mm about Kangaroo Island, the Nullarbor and far southeast. Isolated falls of 5-15 mm possible about southeastern coastal fringes.

The next routine forecast will be issued at 4:00 am CST Tuesday.
