Weather Situation

A strong high pressure system south of the state will maintain a ridge across SA for the next few days as it drifts eastwards, to be located over NSW from Friday. A cold front is then likely to approach from the west late Saturday and move across SA on Sunday.

Forecast for the rest of Thursday 17 September

Cold at first with patchy fog and frost in parts, mainly on and to the east of the ranges. Dry and mostly sunny day. Maximum temperatures below average, tending above average in the far southwest. Southeast to northeasterly winds, fresh and gusty in the northeast during the day.

Forecast for Friday 18 September

Cold at first with patchy frost in parts of the east. Dry and mostly sunny day. Maximum temperatures above average. Northeast to northwesterly winds, tending east to southeasterly at times in the northeast.

Forecast for Saturday 19 September

Dry and mostly sunny day. Maximum temperatures above average. Northeast to northwesterly winds ahead of a west to southwesterly change from the southwest overnight. Winds freshening in the far west during the afternoon and about coastal areas overnight.

Forecast for Sunday 20 September

Slight chance of an isolated shower about the Southern Agricultural Area. Chance of an isolated thunderstorm in the far northwest later. Maximum temperatures above average. North to northwesterly winds ahead of a west to southwesterly change extending across the state throughout the day. Fresh and gusty about coastal areas and parts of the eastern districts during the afternoon. Winds throughout tending southwest to southeasterly from the evening.

Cumulative rainfall totals to the end of Sunday: less than 1 to 2 mm about the Southern Agricultural Area.

The next routine forecast will be issued at 4:00 pm CST Thursday.
